reach your audience

Finally... finding a cost effective, rock-solid direct marketing solution is only a phone call away. Introducing mediamailer - our flagship bulk-email software application. Designed to bring intelligent email marketing solutions right into your workplace, at a smart price.

mediamailer is a standalone, server-side software solution that enables you to send full-colour, professional online email marketing campaigns, with full tracking facilities and recipient personalization.

With this powerful tool, you can create and manage your email campaigns 24/7, 365 anywhere in the world, using a browser-based password protected interface over the internet.

Designing and building campaigns couldn't be simpler, whatever your level of expertise. Whether you choose to use from one of the in-built full-colour email templates, or a bespoke template designed by mediagarden's creative team or use your own HTML code, mediamailer can cater for your needs.

Compile and maintain a multitude of recipients into manageable lists, personalize your messages or target specific demographics. Analyse your data by using mediamailer's impressive set of reporting tools and view snapshots of your messaging stats. Know which messages were received, opened, bounced and clicked - and know each individual stat by recipient name.

Create sign-up subscription form code to use on your own website. Export reporting data to Excel format. In fact there's so much to mention, we suggest that you read on to get the full picture...
